Easterseals Wisconsin Partner AgrAbility of Wisconsin to Host 2025 Summit

(MADISON, Wis.) – Easterseals Wisconsin, in partnership with the University of Wisconsin-Madison Division of Extension, invites farmers, agricultural professionals and community members to the 2025 AgrAbility of Wisconsin Summit, Tuesday, April 15. The event will take place from 9:45 a.m. to 3:45 p.m. at Marshfield Clinic’s Froehlke Auditorium in Marshfield, Wis.

As part of Easterseals Wisconsin’s ongoing commitment to supporting farmers with disabilities, this free event will provide valuable information on farm accessibility, safety and sustainability. Those who register by April 9 will receive a complimentary lunch, provided by the Wisconsin Farmer Veteran Coalition.

The Summit agenda will feature expert-led discussions on topics facing Wisconsin’s farming community, including financial and legal planning for farm families, innovative approaches to farm safety and strategies to support farmers with disabilities. Attendees will also learn about available state and local resources that can help ensure long-term success in agriculture.

In addition to the main sessions, attendees are invited to a farmer veteran networking breakfast from 8:30-9:30 a.m. and a post-summit networking event from 4-5 p.m.

Easterseals Wisconsin has been a proud partner of AgrAbility of Wisconsin since 1991, working to support farmers with disabilities and helping them continue their livelihoods.
